Macon cameras added to Navigator web sites

The Macon area cameras (from I-475 and various city streets) have now been added to DOT public websites. Those sites are Georgia-navigator.com and MyNavigator.com.

Motorists are urged to log onto these web sites to view traffic conditions before beginning trips and get trip times. The pictures from the Macon cameras can be viewed via the Macon area map or via the list format, just like the Atlanta area cameras. They can get personalized traffic data by clicking on the mynavigator link.

The I-475 cameras are listed under the Freeways section, and the Macon city street cameras are under "Local Streets"

Navigator users have been requesting that the cameras in Macon be made available on the web site. It has taken some time to bring the project to fruition, and we are glad that the information is now available to the general public.

Anyone who has questions about the Navigator web-site can call Michael Presley at the Macon Transportation Management Center. His number there is 478-464-5737.
